

Dear Cherry Blossom

I can't quite believe we are entering the final two weeks of the term. I really thought at this point we would all be back together in school. This is certainly a time we will never forget!

So, my twins seem to have completely given up on any type of school work. They seem to think their summer holiday has come early. I'm hoping their teacher will sort them out in September!

Buster is adapting really well to our new furry friend. He mostly ignores him but I have caught them having a friendly sniff. There is hope they will become friends one day although I doubt they will be besties!

Buster is not impressed!

Slowly becoming friends?!

I have included lots of creative activities for you to complete over the next two weeks. It is good preparation for Year 5. If you could save any work that you do and bring them along with you in September to really impress your new teacher!

Have a great week and don't forget I am here if you need me.

Keep smiling!

Lots of love from Mrs Wilkinson. xx
